Welcome to 'Advances in Research and Practice,' the first conference on Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder jointly presented by the University of California, Irvine Child Development Center and the Orange County Department of Education. For over two decades, the UC Irvine Child Development Center has been providing children and their families with resources and support for ADHD and related learning and behavior problems.

This conference is designed to provide psychologists, parents and teachers with information regarding the latest research and clinical practice related to ADHD. In the keynote address, participants will be introduced to the latest evidence for the biological basis for ADHD. They will then be able to choose from a selection of presentations on research, medication and behavior modification. In the closing session, participants will be presented a wide range of innovative, evidence based, school, community and mental health programs as well as support groups designed to address the unique needs of individuals with ADHD. Finally, the audience will be invited to submit questions during a panel discussion.
